Subject: Keep family homes in Central area

While there may be some short term financial benefit (especially to developers) to building more apartment- style housing in my area east of Delaware, San Mateo will pay the price in services, traffic, etc. later when the developer fees have run out. Our city will benefit from the stability and lesser infrastructure demands of families and other long term residents. We need to maintain the Central area of smaller, less expensive houses than we have west of El Camino to attract new and down-sizing residents.
