Message: I feel we should avoid the more dense development plan (Alternative C). I think this whole process is acting in denial of what every climate researcher is predicting. We talk about development decades down the road as though life is just as it was decades ago. Major drought is forecast to be part of our lives for the foreseeable future. Will we ask developers to acknowledge that they cannot supply, nor can we, this requisite resource? I would vote for Alternative A or B. Otherwise, I would have a hard time understanding how you are acting in our community's best interests - which would be doing your darndest to make sure we residents of San Mateo will have water.
