Subject: Tonight's Vote

Dear City Council,

I understand tonight you will vote on whether to disregard Measure Y, which limits building heights to 55 feet and density to 50 units per acre. The residents voted three times to limit height and density, but now the city staff has recommended disregarding the height and density limits in certain areas (downtown, Hillsdale, etc.). Aren't you as voted representatives of residents obliged to represent your constituents' interests? You need to uphold the limits in Measure Y and ensure San Mateo does not become unrecognizable and disappointing to its residents.

Thank you,
Mara Castillo
